MEDICINAL

A woman worn-out, who never has to lift a hand for herself, who does not know the meaning of the word "worry"? How can it be possible? That it is possible is proved by the experience of many a woman who, because of sleeplessness, nervousness, backache and other womanly ills, becomes an utter physical wreck.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription gives new life and new strength to weak, worn-out, run-down women. It establishes regularity, dries unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I suffered for five years with inflammation which caused violent pain and often torture so bad at times that I could not be at my daily duties," writes Mrs. J. C. Bell, of Bathurst, Kingston, Ont. "Life was simply misery to me and I did not know which way to turn for relief. Had tried doctors but found they did not help me. My druggist advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—coughing it in glowing terms. I decided to give it a trial and brought a bottle home. I am happy to say that after the use of the first bottle I felt so much improved that I decided to take another and after that a third bottle. I have good reasons to be pleased for I am to-day a well woman, work is easy and the world looks bright. I have perfect health, thanks to your medicine."

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

MAY BE EMPRESS OF ALL THE RUSSIAS.

No royal woman in Europe is the object of so much speculation at present as the Princess Victoria of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, former grand duchess of Hesse. This is, of course, on account of the recent announcement that the divorced princess is about to marry the Grand Duke Cyril, of Russia, a step that might result in her eventually becoming czarina. Three lives only stand between this cousin of the Czar and the imperial throne—that of Nicholas II, himself, which is not worth much in these days; that of the Czar's brother, Grand Duke Michael, who is the reverse of robust, and that of Grand Duke Cyril's own father, the Czar's uncle, Grand Duke Vladimir, who is getting old.

This regal-looking woman, who may yet be empress of all the Russias, is, of course, an English princess. She was the second daughter of the late Duke of Saxe-Coburg, own brother to Edward VII, and was married to the Grand Duke of Hesse in 1894. Never was a couple less congenial, however. The ruler of the principality of Hesse and the Rhine is decidedly effeminate. He does croquet work and is devoted to the piano. On the other hand, the former Grand Duchess is as masculine as she looks. Nearly all outdoor exercises, particularly horseback riding, appeal to her, and she was interested in military maneuvers as much as her dual husband was bored by them. Their only child was the little Elizabeth of Hesse, who died only a month or so ago. Up to December, 1901, the distinguished relations of the grand-ducal couple managed to keep them together, but then came their divorce, and there never was any possibility of a reconciliation.

Should the Grand Duke Cyril of Russia marry the Princess Victoria all sorts of embarrassing complications are expected. In continental diplomatic circles it is expected that the Czar, following precedent in the cases of grand dukes who have married contrary to the imperial wish, would banish his cousin from his domain, an act which would result in making him an outcast also from the other great courts of Europe. Even did not Nicholas II, adopt such a measure, however, the couple's position would not be particularly pleasant, for the Princess's former husband, the Grand Duke of Hesse, has two sisters at the Russian Court—the Czarina herself and the wife of the Grand Duke Sergei—both of whom certainly would boycott their brother's divorced wife. The atmosphere at the court of Emperor William probably would be uncommonly frosty, too, for another sister of the Grand Duke of Hesse is Princess Henry of Prussia, wife of the Kaiser's brother, who recently visited the United States. At present the Grand Duke Cyril is one of the most brilliant figures in European royal circles, and much curiosity is felt as to whether he will to a great extent forfeit his position in order to marry the woman to whom he is reported to have given his heart.

It was the Grand Duke Cyril's younger brother, Boris, whose exploits while on his tour in the United States not long ago were the subject of not altogether flattering comment.

THE DISASTER IN NORWAY.—The fire which swept over Alesund, Norway, Saturday morning, was mentioned in the Gazette of that day. The conflagration destroyed every building in it with the exception of the hospital. The 11,000 inhabitants of Alesund were compelled to camp in the open, as only a few damaged and uninhabitable houses were left standing. The children of the town had to be housed temporarily in the church at Borgund.

The panic among the people was so great after the outbreak of the flames that all attempts at leadership or discipline became out of the question: The people first endeavored to save some of their property, but they soon found they had quite enough to do to save their own lives.

The destruction of the town was complete within a couple of hours of the time the fire started. Over twenty steam fishing boats, and many sailing smacks were sunk in the harbor in order to save them from the flames, but three steamers and many smacks, were burned. It is believed now that only three persons lost their lives.

A majority of the inhabitants of the town lost everything they possessed, and only in a very few cases were the damages covered by insurance. Thousands of persons had to spend twenty-four hours in the open fields, where they were without food and exposed to a bitterly cold wind and driving rain storm.

Eye witnesses of the conflagration relate tales of the terrible sufferings of the refugees who fled in terror to Syllevik, the nearest town, which is six miles away. Several vessels from Molde and other places made unsuccessful attempts of rescue the refugees, but they were unable for a long time to approach the wharf, which was a mass of glowing ruins.

Dreadful Croup.
Croup attacks a child without warning and needs immediate, prompt attention, or it may prove serious—even fatal. If you notice any symptoms of croup, give baby a small dose of
Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup
It will relieve it instantly and cure it in a night. No danger from choking after you have given baby one or two doses. Every mother should keep a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup in the house to be prepared for sudden attacks of croup. Thousands of letters are received from grateful mothers, who say their babies' lives have been saved by Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

REFUSE SUBSTITUTES.
Be careful and see that you get the genuine; do not let an unreliable dealer sell you some cheap preparation that he says is "just as good as Dr. Bull's." He is thinking of larger profits only, not of your child or the health of your baby. See that the "BULL'S HEAD" is on the package, then you know it is the genuine. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is prescribed by all doctors and used in leading hospitals exclusively. Large bottles at all druggists, 25c.
